Leading The Way

BY JENNY GABRUCH

Set to experience one of the biggest economic shifts in recent times, the Cayman Islands is well positioned for greater opportunities and future growth.

A number of innovative projects are taking shape that will diversify, strengthen, and transform the economic landscape of these islands.

At the moment, Cayman is experiencing a business and building boom, fueled by such projects as Health City Cayman Islands, the new luxury Kimpton-managed hotel on Seven Mile Beach, the “18 Forum Lane” commercial and retail complex at Camana Bay, the Caribbean Plaza on West Bay Road, and the ultra-luxury beachfront condominium project on Seven Mile Beach, The WaterColours, among others.

Plans for a new cruise pier and airport expansion are additional initiatives that will bolster existing industries while diversifying the economy.

These diverse developments will build on Cayman's competitive strengths as a world-class financial services center and tourism destination, its long-held economic pillars. Business innovators in the community, both large and small, are paving the way to bring greater prosperity and a brighter future for all.

Among the projects leading the way is the opening of the first phase of the visionary Health City Cayman Islands, a medical tourism venture in the east end of the island.

Health City Cayman Islands is a joint venture between Narayana Hrudayalaya Hospitals of India, a private venture developed by renowned heart surgeon Dr. Devi Shetty, and Ascension Health Alliance, the largest non-profit Catholic healthcare organization in the United States. The US $2-billion project, to be constructed in phases over the next 15 years through private financing, will bring high-quality, low-cost healthcare services to the

Cayman Islands, and create a world-class destination for medical tourism.

The Dart group of companies is moving ahead with multiple projects that will have a significant impact on the economy

Currently offering the island's largest concentration of 'Class A' office space in Camana Bay – more than 300,000 square feet – Dart Realty is developing another 85,000 square feet of prime office and retail space, set for completion in 2015. The building, 18 Forum Lane, will feature retail space on the ground floor and offices on the three upper levels. It will be the island's first LEED certified mixed-use commercial building.

A hub for Cayman's leading firms, this newest commercial space will firmly ground an already well-established relationship with the financial services sector, positioning Camana Bay to grow alongside the industry.

Among Dart's long-term plans are constructing five hotels in the Seven Mile Beach, West Bay Road and Barkers areas, with condominiums adjacent to those properties. The redevelopment of the former Courtyard Marriott into a 10-storey hotel is now under way, and is expected to open in 2016.

The 265-room will be managed by Kimpton Hotels & Restaurants, a pioneer of the boutique hotel concept in the U.S. The property will feature five restaurants and lounges, expansive indoor and outdoor meeting spaces, a cascading oceanfront pool and a destination spa. A signature of the property will be the sweeping water views from all the guest rooms and public spaces as well as six beachfront bungalows.

The $200 million project is expected to create more than 400 local jobs, and will expand and complement Cayman's high-end tourism product.

Another Dart project will usher in a new era of boating in the Cayman Islands – the $6 million refurbishment of the Cayman Islands Yacht Club, which is nearing completion. Upgrades include new state-of-the-art docks, walkways, and anchorage systems and improvements to the car park, fueling station, chandlery, lighting, and landscaping. The Yacht Club can accommodate 158 vessels, from 30 to 80 feet.

LUXURY PROPERTY

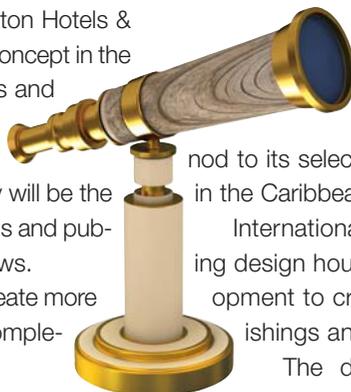

Several luxury property developments are coming on stream including the innovative beachfront condominium complex, The WaterColours. This nine-storey building on Seven Mile Beach features 60 spacious private residences, and sets a new benchmark for luxury living.

The US$200 million residential development is the vision of Fraser Wellon, well-known for his pioneering high-end developments. The WaterColours has already earned international accolades for its innovative design, capturing the highest rating in its category at the International Property Awards. These prestigious awards celebrate the highest levels of achievement by companies from around the globe operating in all sectors of the property and real estate industry.

The WaterColours won Five-Star Awards for Best Development Multiple Units as well as for Best Apartment – a nod to its select "Grand Residences" – in Cayman and in the Caribbean in 2012-13 and 2013-14.

International Design Group, one of Cayman's leading design houses, worked exclusively with the development to create timeless and elegant interiors, furnishings and furnishings.

The development is the tallest building in

Health City Cayman Islands

Cayman and offers an amenities package associated with a five-star resort.

Casa Luna in South Sound is also nearing completion. The beachfront development is made up of 18 multi-level villas with sweeping views of the sea. Set on four acres of land, the luxury home development is spearheaded by Hugh Hart, a long-time property developer in Jamaica and Cayman.

Lalique Pointe is a new luxury development located along the Seven Mile Beach corridor, situated in the prestigious Crystal Harbour subdivision. Estates in this residential community offer superior living spaces, prime waterfront views and lush landscaping that includes lakefront parks with Mediterranean themed patios and architecture. Several exceptional residences are nearing completion, including Mimosa, a 4,800-square-foot Spanish colonial home, and Atria, a 12,000-square-foot modern estate home.

GROWING AND DIVERSIFYING

Cayman Enterprise City is a growing venture that is future-focused. This special economic zone is designed to promote a free-market business environment through the creation of knowledge-based industries for commerce and education.

Special economic zones have consistently boosted local economies around the world through direct foreign investment as well as by creating highly skilled jobs within the zone and generating work outside the zone in such support sectors as construction, professional services, and supply services.

Cayman Enterprise City estimates it has had an economic impact of $12.6 million since its inception in February 2012. It anticipates future investment in the construction and development of its main campus alone will be $317.3 million over the next 10 to 15 years. The complex will be made up of six campuses, representing the largest information and communications technology cluster in the Caribbean region. It is also positioned as a strategic base for companies targeting emerging markets.

There are now more than 90 companies signed up with CEC, with more than 200 in its sales pipeline.

Caribbean Utilities Company, CUC, is also planning for the future by looking into the development of alternative energy. It recently entered into agreements with two renewable energy developers to provide 13 MW of renewable energy capacity on the CUC grid using solar panels and wind turbines. The project is expected to be completed by early 2015.

Consolidated Water is continuing to expand operations, with its most recent desalination plant in Bali, Indonesia. It is currently pursuing a mega desalination plant in Baja California, Mexico. The company, which marked its 40-year anniversary last year, now operates 15 plants in five countries.

Another positive came earlier this year when rating agency Moody's maintained the credit rating of the Cayman Islands with a stable outlook.

In its latest ratings report, Moody's listed Cayman as retaining an Aa3, which indicates a very low credit risk – a positive sign that will encourage investors to have the highest confidence in Cayman's future.

With forward-thinking companies diversifying and invigorating the economy, the road ahead appears to be a promising path for the Cayman Islands. ⚙️

THE WATER COLOURS: DESIGNED FOR SEAMLESS BEACHFRONT LIVING

CONTEMPORARY, ORGANIC AND DISTINCT.

Those are among the defining elements of the innovative interior design at The WaterColours, Grand Cayman's exciting new condominium development on world-famous Seven Mile Beach.

International Design Group, Cayman's leading interior design house, worked exclusively with the development team behind this exemplary beachfront property, the conception for which was to create an unparalleled ambience with timeless design and sophisticated style that resonates with contemporary beachfront living.

Rich woods, granite, marble and stone are incorporated throughout with elements of the ocean ever-present, including intricate coral pieces with soft sand and cream tones, contributing to the tranquil, secluded atmosphere. The complimentary color palette is inspired by the natural surroundings - white sands, contrasting azure blue waters and suntanned tones of the beach. Space and light are key elements in all of the living spaces, while other Elements like texture have been incorporated with natural stone finishes, metals and organic materials to add dimension and interest. Elegant yet sculptural light fixtures allow for soft illuminations and a warm, inviting ambience within all of the common areas.

Every effort has been made through the interior design to ensure residents are "living the vision" and IDG's award winning team have carefully crafted an environment that invokes the intended vision by contrasting the strong, clean architectural lines with organic curves for a sense of balanced flow. The goal was to blend traditional elements with innovative, contemporary design to create a "current, yet timeless space". Specific interior finishes, furnishings, art work and original designs were thoughtfully chosen so together they would achieve the goal of integrating intimate living spaces with more generous social gathering places, seamlessly drawing the 60-unit beachfront condominium complex together.

Architectural design features like the cutting edge pool have been complimented by suitably dynamic ultra chic day beds and upside-down umbrellas. Original designs as well are found throughout the development such as a large coral feature wall created from mosaic tile in the lobby.

This project has been a triumph of original design, complementing the beauty of both the sea and the sand - while never taking away from the spectacular views.

Three Projects, One Vision

Dart Realty enters 2014 with three major development projects at different stages of construction. They have varied histories, are in different areas of Grand Cayman and will serve diverse markets when complete. Yet these building projects are unified by a core value identified by the Dart family as a cornerstone of all Dart businesses worldwide: innovation. Each of the projects will add something distinctly different to Cayman's economy, enriching the experiences of the people who use them, in these cases: boaters, business professionals and beach lovers.

NEAR COMPLETION: CAYMAN ISLANDS YACHT CLUB

The Yacht Club and its surrounding facilities, which provide the Seven Mile Beach area with a gateway to the North Sound, were badly damaged in Hurricane Ivan and not fully rebuilt. Years later there were still a few submerged boats in the harbour. In 2011 Dart Realty purchased The Yacht Club and began significant refurbishment of the marina and surrounding areas. Work included cleaning out the debris, entirely removing the old, damaged docks and installing new state-of-the-art walkways, docks and anchorage systems as well as comprehensive landside improvements.

The renovation marks a new era for boating in the Cayman Islands, showcasing Dart's principles of thoughtful sustainable development in a marina environment. The Yacht Club now boasts a Poralu Marine dock system, a network of floating pontoons from the name synonymous with the world's highest environmental and design standards in marine infrastructure. These extraordinarily stable docks are anchored by Seaflex moorings, a self-regulating elastic system designed to have minimal environmental impact on the seabed. The docks and moorings were installed by local contractor Mac Iron Marine and will provide generations of boat owners and visitors with a more pleasant marina experience.

Every convenience was considered for the Yacht Club berths which can accommodate up to 158 vessels from 30 to 80 feet with a draft of 4.5 feet. Each slip is equipped with individual power, water and pump-out systems. The dock used by commercial dive boats also features a whip panel where operators can simply hook up their compressor at the central panel and use the whips threaded underneath the docking system to refill the tanks on their boats. Each of the four docks will have entry by key-card, lending additional protection to the Yacht Club's 24-hour security and property management services.

As the primary gateway to the North Sound, the refurbished Yacht Club is designed to give the 700 owners, operators and guests who pass through each day a marina experience befitting the natural beauty and ecological richness that make Cayman a boater's paradise. Landside amenities will include high-speed wireless Internet, an enhanced fuel depot and a convenience store and chandlery with essentials from fishing equipment to squid to navigation tools. There is ample car and bus parking, paved walkways and lush landscaping, featuring native plants and trees from the Dart Realty Nursery.

COMING UP QUICKLY: 18 FORUM LANE IN CAMANA BAY

Since Camana Bay opened its first buildings in 2007, corporate demand for office space within the Town Centre has exceeded expectations. The market has reacted with enthusiasm to the mixed-use Town which integrates global business with a real sense of Caribbean community. Existing office space is nearly 95% leased.

Owing to this demand and confidence in Cayman's business growth, Dart Realty chose to commence construction on the next address in Camana Bay's commercial office portfolio without an anchor tenant in place. Shortly after the property was announced, a firm signed for nearly 20,000 square feet. 18 Forum Lane is scheduled for completion in February 2015 and will add a total of 85,000 square feet of office and retail to the Town Centre. The building includes ground floor retail space and offices on three upper levels.

Top: 18 Forum Lane rendering
Below: Kimpton Hotel rendering

18 Forum Lane is designed to be an integral part of the Town Centre while paying homage to traditional Cayman building craft. One notable design feature will be metal cladding fabricated to resemble the distinctive corrugated zinc roofs that cover traditional Cayman cottages. Another hallmark is a central courtyard conceived as an outdoor room with ample shade by day and artful lighting at night, continuing Camana Bay's commitment to open, public spaces.

Designed to achieve a series of unprecedented construction milestones, 18 Forum Lane will be Cayman's first LEED certified mixed-use commercial building, advancing Camana Bay's long-term focus on sustainability. From the island's largest photovoltaic system to provide tenants with significant energy savings to 'plug and play' spaces to help facilitate turnkey fitouts, businesses of varying sizes can take advantage of the energy-efficient, flexible space. 18 Forum Lane is the ideal address for forward-thinking companies that are fuelling Cayman's economy.

COMMENCING CONSTRUCTION: KIMPTON HOTEL PROJECT

Only a few months into construction of the 265-room Kimpton hotel, it is apparent that the brand's first Caribbean resort won't follow the traditional Seven Mile Beach development formula. Just a look at the raft slab foundation, completed in a series of the largest foundation pours in the history of the Cayman Islands, shows a resort footprint that defies convention. The westernmost tip of the building is set 235 feet back from the high water mark; many Seven Mile Beach properties are set back only 50 feet. With a perpendicular orientation to the beach, most of the resort is situated more than 400 feet back with the neighboring condominium building set back almost 500 feet.

The unusual site orientation is the result of a series of design inspirations and initiatives posed by Ken Dart. His vision is to ensure that the Kimpton hotel delivers a guest experience unlike any other on Seven Mile Beach, with the same level of Caymanian hospitality that inspired him and his family to return after their first visit more than 25 years ago.

Underground parking and back of house operations will elevate the hotel entrance to 24 feet above sea level. Guests will enter the resort grounds along a gently sloping, meandering drive canopied by native palm trees. They'll approach the hotel entrance and immediately be presented with a majestic view of Seven Mile Beach and the Caribbean Sea. Every guest room and condominium will feature sweeping water views.

The resort's Seven Mile Beach experience will extend far beyond lounge chairs on the sand. Open green spaces are designed to take full advantage of the generous site and feature public biking and walking paths that traverse the ocean side of the property. Guests will walk out of the resort on to a gently cascading pool deck surrounded by ocean view event lawns and hidden pocket gardens.

Of course before this vision is realized, there will be years of construction that will produce more than 400 local jobs. The resort is designed for LEED certification and will incorporate the latest sustainable technologies along with innovative construction practices. The foundation is laid and the footprint is marked; now the impact on the economy can truly be realised. ⚙️

These three seemingly divergent initiatives, the Cayman Islands Yacht Club, 18 Forum Lane and the Kimpton hotel project, share Dart's corporate objective of enhancing the quality of life for residents and visitors to the Cayman Islands.

The Direction of The Compass

BY DAVID AND VICKI LEGGE

When we purchased the Compass through our company Pinnacle Media, our goal was to publish a newspaper that ranks favorably with the finest news outlets in the world. That continues to be our mission, and we are making significant strides in that direction.

To meet our standards and expectations, the Compass must do several things extremely well:

First, and most importantly, our news pages must reflect the community we serve. The Cayman Islands comprise a unique country, an amalgam of the rich culture and traditions, existing side-by-side with modern international financial, tourism, and soon-to-be medical industries.

Our challenge is to produce a newspaper that addresses the interest of our diverse community. In truth, modern-day newspapers must offer diverse coverage of stories to their diverse community of readers, and nowhere is that more true than in Cayman where nearly half of our population consists of expatriates from more than 100 countries.

Some readers turn first to sports, others to business stories, and still others to international news (What's going on in Jamaica or the Philippines?) Our reporters must inform us about actions in the Legislative Assembly, proceedings in the courts building, and yes, what's playing at the local cinema. (A previous governor advised (warned?) us not to tinker with our comics page.)

Changes at the Compass are taking place both externally (what you see and read) and internally (the reorganization of our business structures). If you visit our offices at the Compass Centre, you'll walk into a completely reappointed modern reception area. For our staff, we've refurbished the offices in many departments and even added a new dining room. We are investing heavily in upgrading internal systems, including our IT infrastructure, and soon we will be providing a much-improved online experience for our readers.

Readers may notice we recently upgraded the quality of paper we print on, enabling better reproduction of our photographs, articles, and advertisements.

We have hired (and are still hiring) a number of new editors and reporters to improve and expand our daily content. We are paying special attention to our proofreading (and still cringe when we fall short).

For news outside our borders, we have purchased the Washington Post News Service, giving us access to every word The Post publishes, including economic, sports, entertainment, and international news. Photos, too. (The Post syndicate complements our continued Associated Press access.)

Having learned his trade at fine journalism establishments (The St. Petersburg Times, The Washington Post, and Newsweek Magazine), David Legge, who serves as Editor in Chief, still believes in strong boundaries between the Compass's "news coverage" and its "editorial opinions," which appear daily on the Editorial Page (usually Page 4).

Previously, Compass editorials were written by newsroom reporters. We found this co-mingling of objectivity (which all reporters must abide by) and subjectivity (personal opinions) to be unwise and conflicting.

Therefore, shortly after purchasing the newspaper, we set up a completely independent Editorial Department, run

Modern-day newspapers must offer diverse coverage of stories to their diverse community of readers, and nowhere is that more true than in Cayman.

by an Editorial Board, which each day promulgates the "voice" of the newspaper. Think of this department as the "think tank" of the Compass.

We are adding staff to this department, which also oversees opinion pieces such as columns and Letters to the Editor. A short word about each:

We have added a number of syndicated columnists whom we consider to be among the best and brightest thinkers and writers in the world. These include George F. Will and Charles Krauthammer, both Pulitzer Prize winners, and Dr. Richard Rahn, a world-renowned economist who formerly served as a director of the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority. We are currently seeking one or two local columnists to complement our international offerings.

Readers may also notice that we are taking strong editorial positions on issues of significant concern to the community. We are committed not just to "ad hoc editorials" but to sustained "editorial campaigns" on foundational issues such as conservation, waste management, education, and fiscal responsibility.

Our editorial voice is independent with no partisan preference for any political party. We will continue to advocate strongly for clean transparent government that provides essential services effectively and efficiently.

Excellence in Cayman for 40 years

On August 31, 2013, Consolidated Water marked its 40th Anniversary of operations in the Cayman Islands. The Company celebrated with a splash! A Chamber of Commerce Business After Hours event was held at their Abel Castillo Water Works desalination plant site in Governors Harbour, with an excellent turnout despite inclement weather. A '40km for 40 years' charity cycling event featuring the CWCO Team raised over

The CWCO team at the '40km for 40 years' charity cycling event.

CI$1,400 towards Cayman HospiceCare in honour of past General Manager, Pete Ribbins, whose birthday was also celebrated on August 31. Other year-long celebratory activities included a weekly gift certificate giveaway for forty weeks '40 for 40' to its Cayman Water customers, as well as Caymanian Compass features on long-serving employees and the Company's history.

Consolidated Water has much to be proud of. Starting from its humble beginnings providing drinking water and sewerage services to the Governors Harbour residential area, the Company moved on to design, construct and operate desalination plants in other Caribbean islands and Central America, such as the Bahamas, the British Virgin Islands, Belize, Barbados and Bermuda. The Company's most recent expansion took place on the other side of the globe, in Bali, Indonesia. The Company is also actively pursuing business for a mega desalination plant in Baja California, Mexico. Consolidated Water currently proudly supplies over twenty-seven million gallons per day of drinking water, through the operation of fifteen plants, spanning five countries. ⚙

Continuous Investments In Our Community

Over the past 45-plus years, Caribbean Utilities Company, Ltd. (CUC) has led the development of Grand Cayman by providing world-class electricity service through continuous investment in infrastructure, technology and people. Looking to the future, the cost and environmental impact of fossil fuels will continue to drive the development of alternative energy sources and consumer energy efficiency.

CUC has entered into agreements with two renewable energy developers to provide 13 MW of renewable energy capacity on the CUC grid utilizing solar panels and wind turbines. The projects are expected to be completed by early 2015. CUC also has a very successful Customer Owned Renewable Energy (CORE) programme that allows customers to interconnect and combine the eco-friendliness of their small renewable generators with the reliability of CUC's grid.

In the areas of efficiency and technology CUC has embarked on an Advanced Metering Infrastructure (AMI) project which will see all customer meters upgraded to 'Smart' meters that will report real-time consumption data and enable customers to adjust their consumption patterns to become more energy efficient. CUC will also become more efficient in meter reading, connection and disconnection of power and identification of energy losses or power quality issues.

It is little wonder that in 2013 CUC won two top awards from the Caribbean Electric Utility Services Corporation (CARILEC) based on efficiency, productivity, reliability, cost effectiveness, and customer service quality. ⚙️

CUC's Line Operations crews are dedicated professionals trained to provide first-class service to the Grand Cayman community.
